LENA AND MEGA

Maily Cart-Lamy

23 x 26 cm
40 pages
14,50 euros
hardback

Léna is a little girl who loves to draw. But one day, something makes her lose confidence in herself and in her creativity. The following night, she ventures on an extraordinary journey with Mega, the Whale. Together, they visit galaxies and discover the unusual and fascinating world of art.

The duo of never-before-seen characters will speak to all those who nurture a strong relationship with children who are not their own, encouraging imagination and self-confidence.

THE MURMUR OF THE FOREST

Emmanuelle Houssais

18 x 15 cm
32 pages
10 euros
hardback

Alice loves collecting things. Her collection of seeds is her favorite. Thanks to them she discovers the magic of plants. One night, she hears the forest whisper its secret. To make sure that the forest is heard by as many people as possible, Alice and her friends embark on a project that will transform her school and her town: they create an urban forest. You are never too small to change the world!

Through delicate and radiant illustrations, this book raises awareness about the actions children can take to improve the environmental quality of cities.

THE EARTH IS WARMING UP

Sandrine Dumas Roy
Emmanuelle Houssais

26 x 26 cm
36 pages
14,50 euros
hardback

The Earth is getting warmer - it's a fact and it's all because of farts! Incredibly, it's true - One of the causes of global warming is farting cows. To understand what is disturbing the atmosphere, the animals decided to send dolphins around the world to collect information. They are holding a competition to find a solution: eat GM (gas modified) foods? Make fizzy milk? Use this gas to run an ice factory? A delightful picture book that provides a humorous introduction to the problem of global warming.

A double-reading album: a fun animal tale for the youngest, a glimpse of the reflections led by society for the oldest.

FRIENDSHIP, IT MATTERS A LITTLE, A LOT, A GREAT DEAL...

Rhéa Dufresne
Sébastien Chebret

22 x 22 cm
26 pages
13,50 euros
hardback

What does it mean to be "friends"? You can be friends since kindergarten. Or you can meet in the park or in the train and become friends for life. Sometimes, you share all your secrets, bicker and then make up... There are plenty of ways to be friends, the important thing is to feel good together.

In each book of this series of 7, the authors explore a topic using easy and accurate words. The bright illustrations in the books show scenes from our kids' everyday life.

RHÉA DUFRESNE after her studies in child psychology she has chosen to unleash her passion for children's literature. She practices, in a joyful disorder, the professions of animator, editorial director, teacher and author. Stimulated by boundless curiosity, her books were born from a question that, at some point, crossed her mind.

Text / Rhéa Dufresne

SÉBASTIEN CHEBRET after obtaining a master's degree in visual arts, he pursued in 2007 a DEA in Contemporary Arts and Societies in Bordeaux, with the theme of youth illustration. He mixes different techniques: painting (gouache, acrylic, watercolor) and he also likes to work with collage. His illustrations are marked by the growing presence of the digital tool.

Marie Lescroart
Myriam Rabah-Konaté
Catherine Cordasco

23 x 18 cm
80 pages
17 euros
hardback

With its mythology, pyramids and pharaohs, Egypt has fascinated young and old alike for centuries! But did you know that the Nile is at the heart of Egyptian history and society? It is a source of wealth, its floods still punctuate human life today, and gods and pharaohs paid homage to it... Sailing on the Nile also means discovering its fascinating flora and fauna, and understanding the geopolitical, economic and environmental issues surrounding water management... This magnificently illustrated book provides a comprehensive and contemporary overview of the subject.

A journey through ancient and contemporary Egypt along the banks of the Nile!

CATHERINE CORDACO was once a stage actress who left the stage for a school of applied arts, where she graduated in textile design. When she turned to illustration, it was love at first sight! She integrates her knowledge of textile design in her illustrations to assert her style. Today, she works for publishing and the press, as well as in personal projects.

Born as a Girl takes us on a journey from Mexico to Nepal, Kenya, Afghanistan, and France to meet five teen girls. They each tell us their own personal story and bring to light a social issue concerning the place of women and women's rights. Each story is followed by resources pages to provide specific information about all the issues covered: taboo against periods, forced marriages, feminicides... The book also highlights everyday initiatives and activists struggling for more equity and justice.

An essential book that raises awareness of the need to improve the status of girls and women around the world.

WHERE IS THE CLIMATE GOING?

Claire Lecœuvre
Élodie Perrotin

Climate change. It is a hot topic and most of the time what we hear doesn't make much sense. Will there really be an increase in storms in the future? What is the 2 degrees Celsius limit we always hear about? Is the IPCC a cult? Where do greenhouse gases really come from? What should you answer to: "But it's not warming up, it's actually getting colder"?
